Chad ups uninterruptible power supply

Overview

Why do we need uninterruptible power supplies?

However, during transmission and distribution, it is subject to voltage sags, spikes and outages that can disrupt computer operations, cause data loss and damage equipment. The uninterruptible power supplies protect the connected equipment from power problems and provide battery backup during power outages.

What are the different types of ups?

Currently, there are three types of the UPS systems: online, offline and line-interactive. Each of them has advantages and is more suitable for some applications than others. The online UPS excels in providing high reliability and power protection. It is designed to provide continuous power to the connected load.

Why do we need an ups in a low-carbon society?

Today, with the continuous development of power electronics, the UPS can efficiently optimize power quality, filter line noise, suppress surges, and provide longer backup power in any location on demand. Low energy consumption, high reliability and small footprint have become the new development directions for the UPS in a low-carbon society.

What is ups output capacity?

The output capacity is the maximum power that the connected load can draw from the UPS system. It is expressed in VA (volt amperes). Currently, there are three types of the UPS systems: online, offline and line-interactive. Each of them has advantages and is more suitable for some applications than others.

Which batteries are used in ups?

The batteries and battery management systems, constitute critical components of the UPS. The UPS uses mainly lead-acid and lithium-ion (Li-ion) batteries. Lead-acid batteries are reliable, cost-effective and have low internal resistance. On the other hand, they are robust, therefore suitable where weight and space are not an issue.

What type of switch should be used for a UPS system?

Different switches can be used depending on the voltage and power level. For single phase, any 650V technology can be used – Si, SiC, IGBT. For three phase systems 1200V SiC MOSFETs are ideal. The inverter defines the output performance of any UPS system. A sine wave output is always the goal to avoid damage to sensitive equipment.
