Could a £750m battery energy storage scheme be the world's largest?

Planning permission has been granted for a £750m battery energy storage scheme (BESS) near Manchester. Carlton Power, the independent energy-infrastructure developer behind the venture, said the 1GW facility at the Trafford Low Carbon Energy Park would be the world's largest battery-storage facility.

Could a £300m energy storage plant help the UK Go Green?

Alistair Houghton Business Live Editor Highview Power's proposed energy storage plant at Carrington, Greater Manchester (Image: Highview Power) A £300m energy storage plant that could create hundreds of jobs is being built in Carrington - and its backers say shows Greater Manchester is leading the way in helping the UK go green.

Why did Trafford Council get planning permission for a battery-storage facility?

Failed to load Related. Planning permission for the battery-storage facility was granted by Trafford Council. The council's leader, Tom Ross, said that the battery storage and green-hydrogen schemes would put Trafford and Greater Manchester "at the forefront of the UK's energy transition".

Will Greater Manchester be a leader in the green transition?

Greater Manchester Metro Mayor Andy Burnham said: "My vision is for Greater Manchester to be a leader in the green transition - and Highview Power's decision to build one of the world's largest long duration energy storage facilities at Carrington is a huge boost for the region.

When will a liquid air energy storage plant start in the UK?

Highview Power has been backed by energy giant Centrica and the UK Infrastructure Bank to build the first commercial-scale liquid air energy storage (LAES) plant in the UK, at Carrington. The company says building work will start immediately and the plant, which got initial planning consent in 2021, should be operational by early 2026.

Can a Highview battery store energy longer than a current battery?

No fuel is burned during the process. Highview says its tech can store energy for longer than current batteries can. It says that by creating a network of storage plants across the UK, starting in Carrington, it can help provide a stable supply of green energy to the National Grid.
