Tender for maintenance of communication network base stations

Overview

How many base stations will CBN & China Mobile deploy this year?

CBN and China Mobile are reportedly promising to deploy 400,000 base stations this year. Robert Clark of Light Reading wrote, “That seems unlikely – it took the incumbent operators nearly two years to reach that mark – but it seems certain that CBN will offer its first commercial services late this year or early 2022.

What are the maintenance services?

The Maintenance Services comprise two phases. The first phase is for the pre-operation services from the date for commencement of the Maintenance Services until the opening of XRL. The second phrase will commence from the opening of XRL for a period of three years, with an option for extension for another three years.

What is the scope of maintenance services?

The scope of the Maintenance Services covers comprehensive corrective and preventive maintenance for the TETRA equipment in XRL. The Maintenance Services comprise two phases. The first phase is for the pre-operation services from the date for commencement of the Maintenance Services until the opening of XRL.
