With financing from the World Bank, NamPower's ambitious project is expected to drastically change Namibia's energy environment by lowering outages, promoting load growth, and creating new avenues for power trading within the Southern African Power Pool.

How can Namibia improve its electrical infrastructure?

A significant $138.5 million investment package to improve Namibia's electrical infrastructure has been certified by the World Bank. The package places special emphasis on the integration of renewable energy through reinforced transmission lines and the installation of a second utility-scale battery storage facility.

What is Namibia's first energy project funded by the World Bank?

The package places special emphasis on the integration of renewable energy through reinforced transmission lines and the installation of a second utility-scale battery storage facility. Under the leadership of NamPower, the national power provider, this historic endeavor represents the first energy project in Namibia to be funded by the World Bank.

Where is a 45 mw/90 MWh battery storage system located?

The construction of a 45 MW/90 MWh battery storage system, carefully sited at the Lithops substation in the Erongo region, is the second element. This location was selected because it is close to important load centers, mostly huge mining activities, and it has the potential to draw significant investments in solar photovoltaic systems.
